

NEED $6,000 FOR CHARITABLE WORK

Associated Charities and Citizens' Relief Association Answering Heavy Demand.

At the monthly meeting of the board of managers, Associated Charities, yesterday, George M. Oyster, Jr., received a vote of appreciation for his services to the city in maintaining for many months a milk station for babies, following the close of the Straus laboratory.

It was announced that the work, until recently carried on by Mr. Oyster, is to be undertaken by the Washington Diet Kitchen, which some months ago opened an infant welfare station in Georgetown.

The Diet Kitchen having expressed a wish to concentrate its service on infant welfare work, the Citizens' Relief Association, at the request of the Associated Charities, has agreed to provide relief for the adult indigent sick, who formerly looked after by the Diet Kitchen.

H. B. F. Macfarland was elected a member of the board of managers. He was formerly a member of the board, but resigned to take a place on the charities' endorsement committee, from which he recently retired.

Reports showed an unusual demand for assistance during February. Association disbursements amounted to $1,033, and from the special relief fund $1,192. Four hundred and ninety-nine families were assisted.

A report from Milton E. Allen, chairman of the joint finance committee, Associated Charities and Citizens' Relief Association, showed the need of $6,000 to carry on the work of these organizations.

Howard S. Reeside, 323 H street northwest, is treasurer of the committee.

Those present were William H. Baldwin, Judge William H. DeLoach, J. Phillips Herrmann, Dr. George M. Kober, Mrs. John W. Thompson, Mrs. Charles W. Richardson, Dr. William C. Rives, Dr. Willard S. Small, Henry White, and George S. Wilson.

Diet of Tomorrow Is Subject of Lecture

Prof. Ellsworth Olsen and Dr. Riley D. Moore, addressed the Food Reform Society at the Public Library last night.

Prof. Olsen said in part: "The diet of tomorrow will be a bloodless diet. Fruits, cereals, nuts, and vegetables will form its chief features. The late General Booth, founder of the Salvation Army, who had a remarkably rigorous and active old age, abstained from meat himself and urged his fellow-workers to do so. John Wesley became a vegetarian early in his great career, and it made a new man of him.

"There is no one food element to be had from the flesh of animals that cannot be had in purer form and at much less cost from plants. Take split peas, accessible to everybody, and, when properly prepared, very digestible. It contains 88 per cent nourishment. Butter beans, 87 per cent. The best lean beef on the other hand, contains only 28 per cent nourishment; poultry, 26 per cent; fish, 22 per cent. But other popular forms of flesh food are even less nourishing. Oysters, for instance, contain about 11 per cent food, and more than 88 per cent water, not very clean water at that, for the oyster is a scavenger and thrives on sewage matter."

WARNER SAYS HIS REPLY WILL BE MILD

Answer to Congressman Johnson's Charge of Bribery Will Be Finished Tomorrow.

Temperate and devoid of acrimony will be the reply of Brainard H. Warner to the attack on him by Congressman Ben Johnson, on the floor of the House Monday. The statement, Mr. Warner said, will be finished tomorrow.

"I have never talked with Mr. Johnson on any business, real estate or other matters, privately or in the presence of his secretary," Mr. Warner said he will say in his reply to Mr. Johnson. "The record of the hearings before the District Committee on the true consideration bill will quote no verbatim, I believe, and I am willing to stand on that record."

Mr. Warner said that he had prepared a twenty-page answer to the statement that he had offered Johnson "a thinly disguised bribe," but that it was "too complete a response to so unimportant a matter." He would "boil it down" before his friends would seek to have it placed in the Congressional Record, he said.

In the meantime Mr. Warner is continuing his efforts to interest citizens in the Capital of the Nation.

"I have sent 1,000 books illustrative of Washington to the members of the

Public Does Not Want Coupons, Says Attorney

The public really doesn't want the tobacco coupons, which bring pocket knives, watches, boxes of candy, and so on, as rewards, John W. Yerkes, of Washington, counsel for Independent Tobacco manufacturers told the House Ways and Means Committee today, in supporting the Underwood bill for a prohibitive tax on such coupons. He charged that State laws against "trading stamps" are evidence of the real public sentiment.

"The tobacco companies and the cigar stores don't give these coupons to a grateful public except as a menace to the independent manufacturers," he charged. "They are used only with goods which compete with independent products."

L. M. Strook, of New York, counsel for the United Cigar Stores Company, charged that the proposed legislation is not a revenue measure, but instead only the answer to off-repeated charges that the United Cigar Stores have put the smaller retailer out of business, that they are a vicious trust, and that they are only a creature of the American Tobacco Company.

Paris Playwright Ready For Duel With a Poet

PARIS, March 11.—Jacques Richepin, a playwright, son of the poet, Jean Richepin, today sent his seconds to Pierre Frondale, according to the Paris Midi.

The newspaper said the cause of the prospective duel was an altercation over the rehearsals of "Aphrodite," a play which Richepin and Frondale wrote jointly.

What Is the Period of the New Millinery Styles?

Some authorities claim the styles are of the period of Louis XV, others of the time depicted by the artist Watteau, still others of the Directory days, and many models would indicate that the fashions of the early part of the 19th century have been followed.

Our display represents a review of all these periods, among the new shapes may be mentioned the chapeau "Ninche," "The Watteau," "The Shepherdess," "The Disraeli," and the high side styles are represented in the shapes we are offering in
